Dear Parents,

This year we have started using an online programme called Provision Map to collate together a range of information regarding additional support that your child might be receiving. Your child may have either a Pastoral Plan or an Additional Support Plan (ASP).

Children with an ASP are on the SEN register because they have additional learning needs which place them significantly behind their peers academically; these children have targets set for them and provisions (or interventions) in place to support them to meet those targets.

Children with a Pastoral Plan require additional intervention (or provision) to help them develop their social and emotional skills or to support them with their own mental health; these children have a plan which outlines their difficulties and provisions in place to support this.

If your child has been identified as needing a Pastoral Plan or an ASP then you will receive a letter which gives you a chance to log onto the online programme and view their plan and provisions. It also gives you a chance to comment on the plan and communicate with the SENCO or Pastoral leads.

If you receive a letter today, please go to the web address shared on the letter and fill in your email address and the unique code. Choose the option that says you don't have an account and complete all the details. Once you submit this information you will be sent an email (please check your junk as it could go to that folder) and asked to click a link to verify your account. Once this is done you can log on and view the information – please do this before parents evening and then if you have any questions, please speak to the class teacher.

If you do not receive a letter home today (please check your child's bag) and think that you should have please speak to your child's class teacher at Parents evening next week.

Yours faithfully

Mrs Pointon
Headteacher
